MORE BOOKS TO READ.

PREFATORY NOTE.

The following list of books is a supplement to the fourth edition of "What to Read" (Tract No. 29; 6d. n.), published in October, 1901. The books are classified under almost the same headings, and in some cases headings are inserted without books in order to indicate that the editors have nothing to add to the earlier list. The books catalogued consist of publications since October, 1901, and only in one or two cases, for special reasons, are older books or new editions mentioned. A small number of the more important Blue-books are added at the end of the sections concerned.

The editors cannot pretend to have read or examined every book in the list, and occasionally they may have placed books under wrong headings, owing to the practice, unfortunately common with authors, of using misleading or vague titles.

The books selected are those likely to be required by Socialists and Social Reformers, and for this reason the completeness of the lists greatly varies. For example, under Free Trade, only a dozen volumes are named out of the hundreds published, whilst under Socialism all books of any permanent importance are (or should be) included.

Finally, the editors desire to say that, although on the subjects named they have used every endeavor to mention all the books suitable in respect of price and contents for the class of reader contemplated—that is, for those who do not desire very recondite, or, unless absolutely indispensable, very expensive, books—they cannot hope that there are no omissions, and that every book named is rightly included.
